Five Ways to Inspire your Library's Tomorrow, Today

Abstract

Academic libraries are learning how to demonstrate their value via evidence based assessment. This is a complex process for the long term road ahead, which is currently under heavy construction. In the meantime, this presentation will guide you through thinking about practices you are currently performing and how to evaluate them in order to provide a more immediate overview of your value and support of academic learning on your campus. Lavery Library has chosen five areas of service to share during this presentation. These five areas each demonstrate a different influence the library has on facilitating learning. They also demonstrate trends within the library which inform decisions for change as well as value sound bites to be shared with stakeholders. Learn how to take a creative and inspiring approach to the services you provide your patrons and show your library's value at the same time!

Agenda

How it all began:

- Strategic Planning
- Assessment Plan Implementation
- Totality

A look at Services

- Outreach
- Collections
- Space
- Research Assistance
- Information Literacy

Where we are now: The value-added package

Environmental Scan

The state of our Library when we began to approach assessment:

- The College was developing a Strategic Plan
- The library was developing and aligning a Strategic Plan
- The library's Mission and Vision statements were revised
- The library was developing assessment plan

Assessment

What to assess?

Where to begin?

What to do?

How to collect data?

How to analyze data?

What happens after first year?

Who is involved?

Who should be involved?

What are we already doing?

What can we share right now to help us get started?

What is our end goal and how can we stay focused?

Totality

ACRL:

- There's actually a name for this way of thinking!
- Method for bringing all philosophy statements and goals together was introduced and brought back to library.

Why should we develop a tagline?

- To empower staff and guide decision making
- Provide a consistent and quality user experience
- Evoke the spirit of our brand/environment
- Share with others the philosophy of the library

Lavery has done the work to develop a mission and vision statement, strategic goals, etc.
A totality statement will tie all of these “dots” together with our services and touchpoints to assist in the everyday embodiment of these values and goals by the library staff.

Outreach

- Current social media outreach
 - Facebook
 - Twitter
- Approach with Strategic Plan and assessment in mind
 - Hashtags were developed for each strategic goal
 - A posting schedule was set up for all library departments
 - Consistent sharing of information relevant to our goals began
 - Side effect: the future collection of goal related activities

Realigning Collections with Access

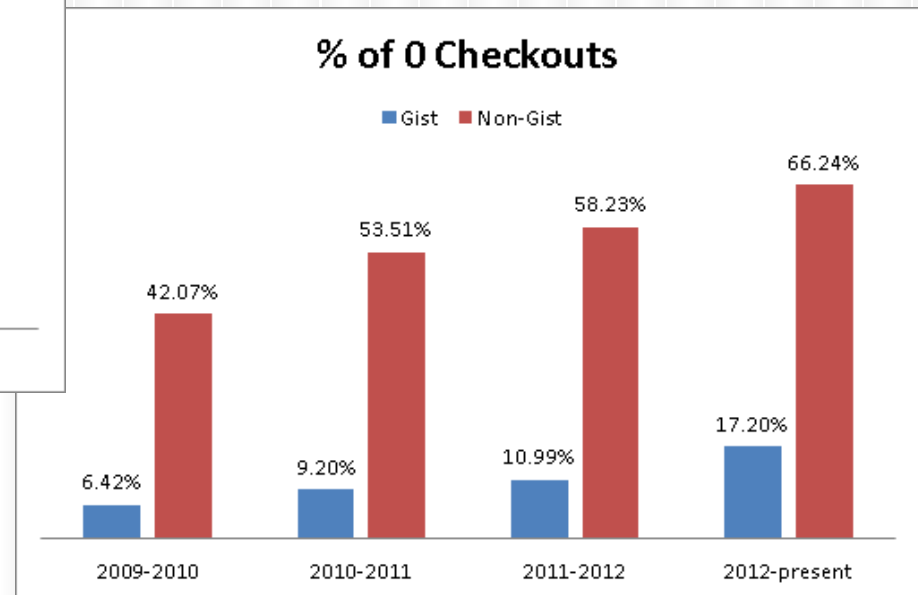

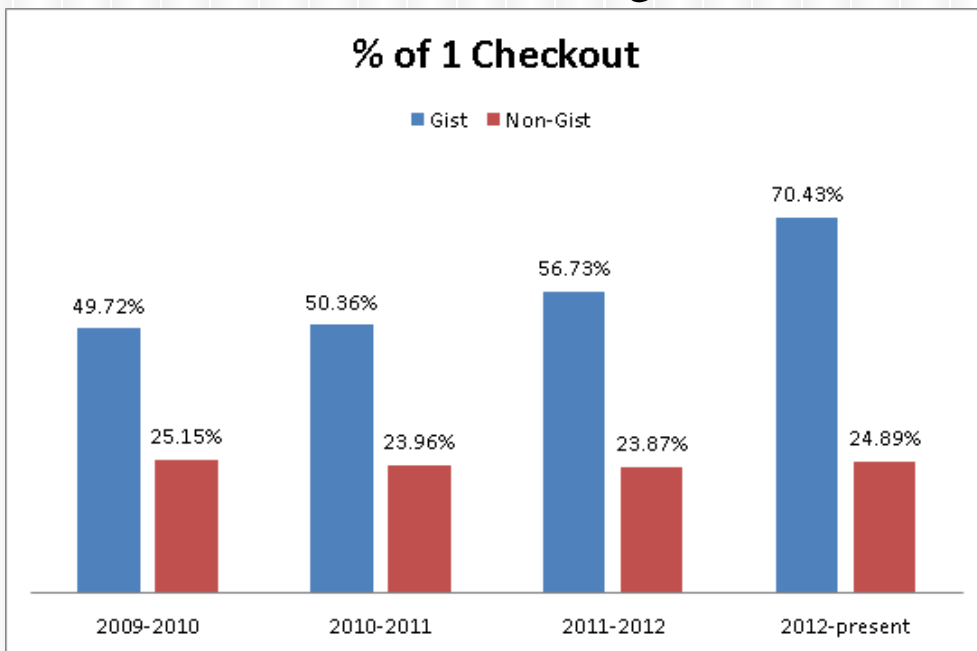

- A study of circulations for POD titles vs traditional collection development purchases was done
- The use of collections should be shared with relevant parties to show value of library
 - ILL Cancellations dropped from 24% in 2009/10 to 16% in 2011/12

Realigning Collections with Usage

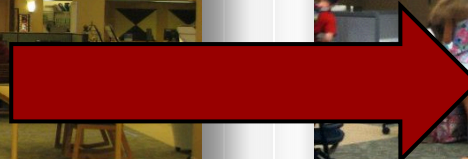

Circulation study continued...

- Statistics were used to show checkout percentages of POD titles vs titles added through traditional collection development.

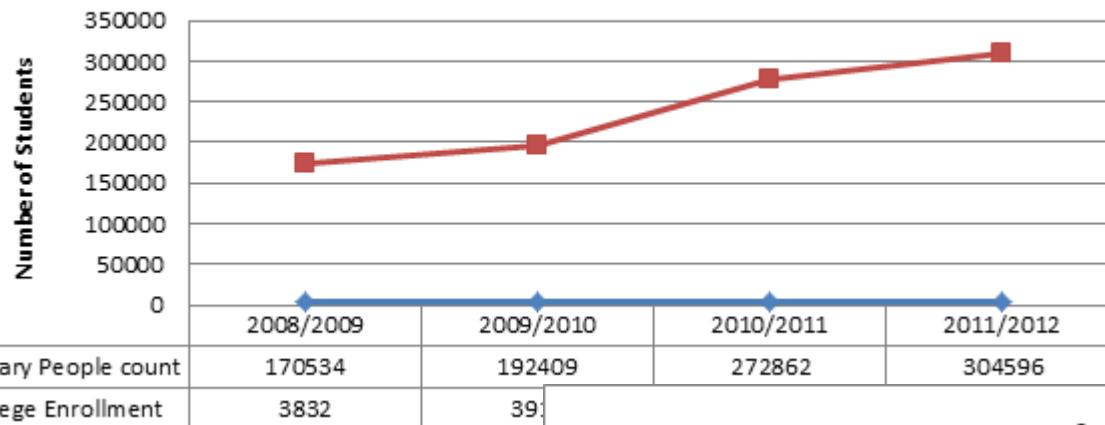

Space

- Library space has continually changed over the past five years
- Statistics are used to show the changing use of the library in different ways
 - growth, location usage, etc.
- An iPad allows for a creative way to collect data in real time which then turned into effective visual representation of that data

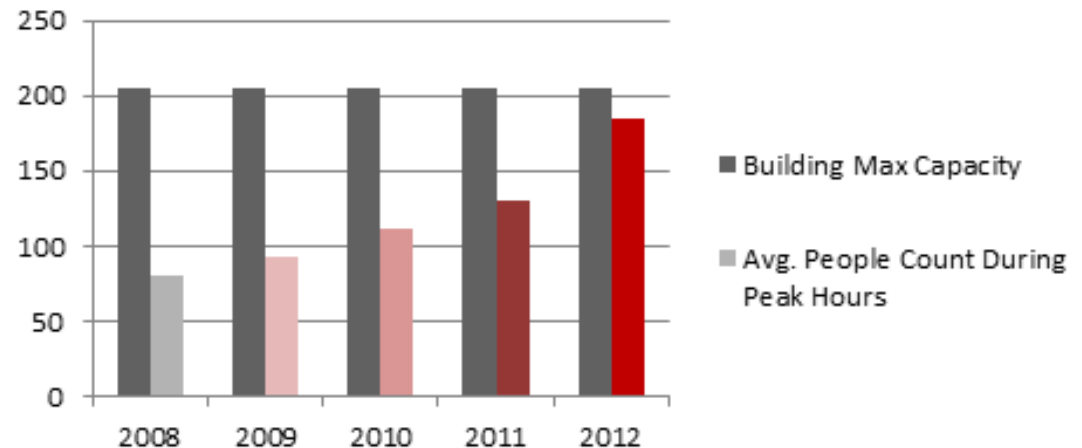

Space

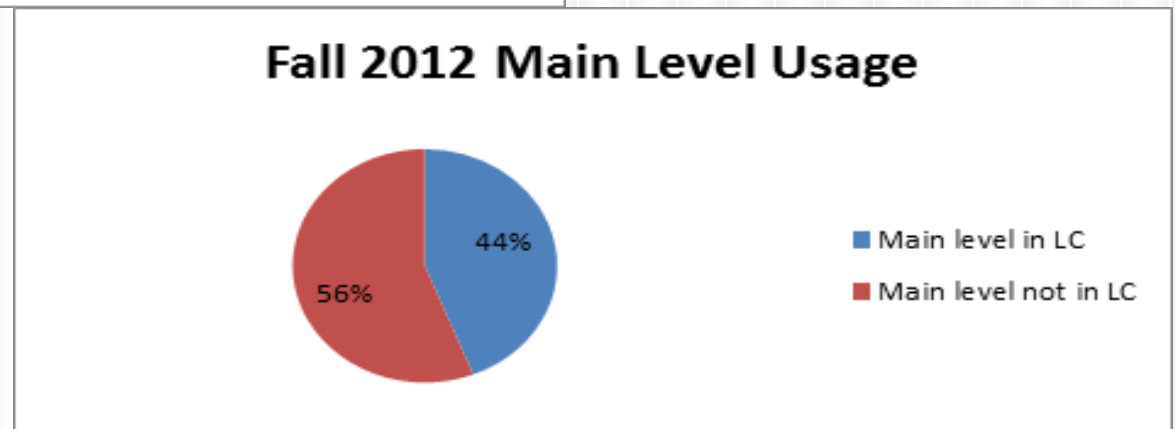

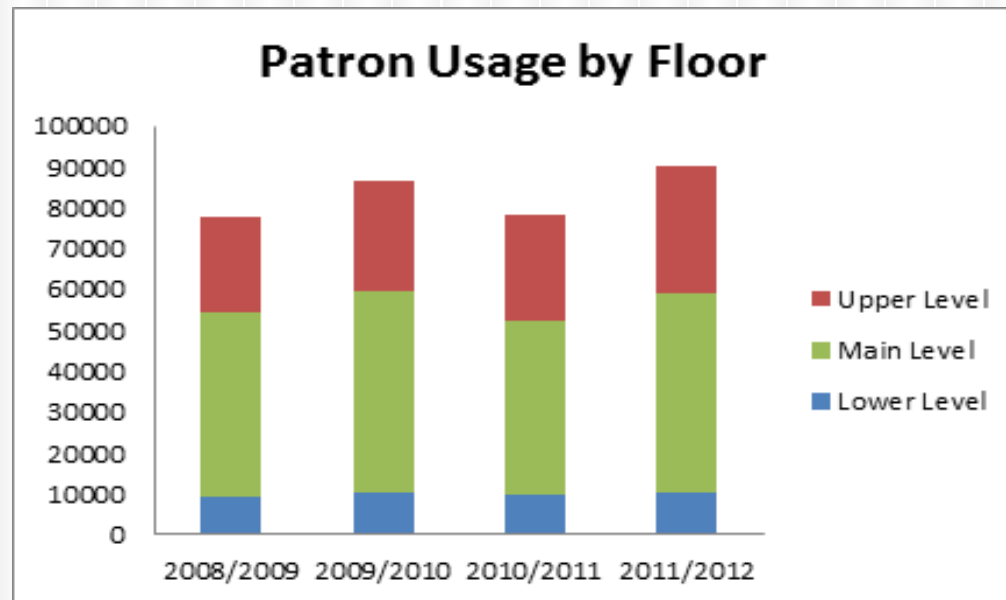

Library Use Growth vs. College Enrollment Growth

Occupancy Capacity vs Library Usage

Space

Research Statistics

- Data collection transition
 - Collecting data and modifying our approach to collecting this data
 - In the early stages but potential benefits are apparent

Research Statistics

- Potential uses
 - Identify trends
 - Make the case for added librarian
 - Assess correlations with research assistance and classroom instruction
 - Pinpoint value to patrons in supporting their research
 - Quantifiable way to share our value externally
 - Evaluate time spent on research support across locations, not just at Help Desk

Information Literacy

- IL was chosen as our Year 1 assessment focus
 - Library connected strongly with First Year Program
 - Paving the road with originality!
 - Implementing more effective assessments in connection with ACRL IL standards
 - Publication of article in C&UL

What now?

Current and next steps for Lavery

- Continually revisit totality statement created Summer 2013
- Year 2 assessment focus: Library services
- Document Document Document!
- Embrace external information sharing to move forward
- Continue making improved decisions based on strategic laser focus
